

My Name Is:

.....

euRathlon

In a small village high in the mountains, something extraordinary happened. The day started like so many others, the smell of burning wood and the morning mist were about to give way to a clear and sunny day. But something extraordinary was going to happen. First, only a few kids noticed: curious little machines were being unloaded from vans and trucks here and there. Their number became clearly conspicuous everyone in the village started to realise: robots were taking over the town! Indeed, robots were not actually invading the village. Rather, they were brought in by roboticists , and were gathering in order to take part in euRathlon 2013, an international robotics competition for emergency response robots. Marquees were placed in the main square for the teams to have their headquarters and prepare for the challenges...

Urban Search +
Rescue

Manipulation and Handling of Hazardous Materials

Search + Rescue in Smoke Filled Underground

Autonomous Navigation

Funded by the European Union

This project has received funding from the European Union's Seventh Framework Programme for research, technological development and demonstration under grant agreement no 601205.